

Shoes That Fit

Every Child Deserves Them

2014 ANNUAL REPORT

PROVIDING NEW SHOES FOR CHILDREN IN NEED

Why shoes?

When someone hears that I work for “Shoes That Fit,” I am often met with a few beats of silence. You can see the questions behind their eyes: Why shoes? Whose shoes DON'T fit? It takes a minute for people to realize that many children are lacking something as very basic as properly fitting athletic shoes.

It's hard to believe that a staggering 16 million children live in poverty in the United States—that's 1 in 5 children, and recent studies suggest that number is actually growing. Shoes are expensive and kids outgrow them so quickly! The humiliation caused by wearing grandma's old shoes—or missing school because you are sharing shoes with your brother—creates lasting scars. The teachers and administrators we work with continually tell us how hard it is for kids to concentrate when their feet hurt, when they are embarrassed and trying to hide from shame, or when they skip school entirely.

Some of these children have NEVER received a new pair of shoes. The fact that someone—a stranger they don't even know—purchased something uniquely for them can change a child's whole outlook on life. One pair of shoes is really an investment in a child's future.

This report demonstrates the depth and breadth of the impact that your support and good work have had on our communities in 2014. Our program works equally well on a large scale as it does on a small scale—we have companies demonstrating their corporate social responsibility by helping thousands of children throughout the United States side by side with individuals helping one school in their community. Our feature in Parade magazine last fall brought us many new supporters and we welcome all our friends who joined us in 2014 to the family.

With thanks for a wonderful 2014 and great hopes for 2015!

Spotlight on Nordstrom

Nordstrom is a company that cares; when it comes to supporting their communities they say they strive to Leave it Better Than They Found It. Here at Shoes That Fit we've seen their commitment in action. During the holiday season, Nordstrom provided an opportunity for customers in all 117 full-line stores and 151 Nordstrom Rack stores to purchase a holiday giving card to donate shoes to children through Shoes That Fit.

"It's been amazing to see our collaboration with Shoes That Fit continue to grow, thanks to our customers and employees who support it each year. 2014 was a record year for our holiday giving program at Nordstrom. We were able to help distribute more shoes than ever—26,000 pairs! It's a tremendous accomplishment and we're looking forward to the future."

—Terri Baldwin, Director, Charitable Giving, Nordstrom, Inc.

Similar to John W. Nordstrom's founding of the company, Shoes That Fit started with few resources—nothing more than a commitment to filling a visible need by providing quality shoes to kids in need. With our shared focus on shoes, quality and service, the sky is the limit in terms of how many children we can positively impact.

"We've been fortunate to partner with Shoes That Fit since 2010 to offer our customers a great way to directly support kids in their communities. We appreciate the way they've chosen to run their operation—by keeping expenses down they are able to focus as many resources as possible directly on the children they serve. We're proud to be associated with them and their efforts."

Team Shoes That Fit!

In December, Shoes That Fit supporters formed our inaugural running team, #TeamShoesThatFit, to participate in the Holiday Half Marathon and 5K Run/Walk at Pomona Fairplex. Featuring a Penguin Waddle for children, the weekend was filled with fun and helped raise awareness about Shoes That Fit and the importance of new shoes to help children feel comfortable and confident. Thank you to Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center, our lead sponsor, Foothill Transit and our runners for their fundraising efforts on behalf of Shoes That Fit.

WALKING ON A CLOUD

"Last Friday, I delivered a pair of sneakers to a student who has special needs. He is nonverbal and not usually happy. As I took off his old shoes I could not help but notice the marked difference in size. The shoes that were taken off were 2.5 sizes smaller. I wanted to cry. The family could not afford to buy him new ones and he couldn't tell anyone they hurt (or didn't know anything different). He refused to take the new shoes off and his teacher said that she had never seen him happier. The rest of the day he was walking on a cloud. The shoes made all the difference for him. If anyone ever questioned the value of this program, please don't. He was happier because his feet didn't hurt anymore...."

The smiles that I saw this fall will stay with me for a long time and they were smiles for shoes that are comfortable...shoes that fit...something that most people take for granted."

—Mary MacDonald, School Counselor, Seattle, WA

"Things were always lean for my divorced mother of four kids. Shoes were a luxury & often old, very tight & terribly scuffed before they could be replaced. The brothers had it worse because they had to share & hand down old shoes to the next. More often than not the soles were holey & cardboard was placed inside. As adults the one thing we all agree on is our love for shoes—lots & lots of them!"

—Christine Limon,
Claremont, CA

Cold Feet in Maine

Like so many of our school liaisons across the country, Tina Veilleux sees children coming to school daily in shoes they've outgrown and are falling apart. As a Registered Nurse at Howard C. Reiche Community School in Portland, Maine, Tina reports that over the years she's "often resorted to duct tape to hold shoes together." The severe weather in Maine makes her intervention critical. "Every day I give out socks for wet feet," Tina says. "It's difficult and dangerous to play on the playground—climb on equipment, run, and play soccer—in ill-fitting shoes."

Tina and her colleagues spend a great deal of time looking for resources for students. "Many students don't have the academic support they need at home because of the stress and challenges poverty brings. Parents can't provide the kind of material support most of us take for granted—extra money to pay for field trips, snacks or lunches, materials for class projects. The school, and often individual teachers, provides most of that."

Shoes That Fit is a reliable resource for devoted teachers and grateful partners like Tina who go the extra mile to support their students. In 2014, liaisons who responded to our annual survey reported the following improvement in their students who received new shoes:

Judi Burson celebrated a special birthday which fell on 11.11.11, by asking her guests to bring a pair of shoes instead of gifts. "Shoes That Fit is a wonderful organization and I am glad to be able to support it."

A Lasting Legacy

Sharon Fordyce first became involved with Shoes That Fit in 1995. “I had never heard of Shoes That Fit and did not know how they knew to call—I agreed to go shopping somewhat reluctantly,” she remembers. “Once I got involved, I began to realize how many children are lacking proper shoes—I was hooked.”

Twenty years later, Sharon is still supporting Shoes That Fit as a volunteer, donor and currently as the organization’s Board President. Sharon and her husband Robin recently included Shoes That Fit in their estate plan, a decision they made after being involved with the organization for many years and because of Sharon’s personal experience with shoes as a child. “I had to wear special shoes to correct my feet, which left me open to teasing and ridicule. I am very aware of how shoes can provide a safety net from bullying.”

Sharon and Robin are determined to leave a legacy that reflects their life work, passions and convictions. “We have worked hard in our lives to get where we are and we like the idea of leaving a lasting legacy behind us. Knowing that we can help those who are less fortunate through a planned gift gives us great joy.”

"We've been involved with Shoes That Fit from the very beginning. As a family, we believe strongly in community; so much so that we have involved our friends and co-workers with this great organization. We know that our donations of shoes, time and money make a big impact in children's lives."

—Liisa and Andy Primack,

"As a professional athlete, I know first-hand the importance of having good athletic shoes in order to participate in physical activity. I can't imagine kids not having shoes to attend school, so I wanted to do my part by donating a portion of my New Balance shoe allowance to Shoes That Fit. I'm happy to make a difference for kids in need."

—Clint Robinson,
Washington Nationals,
MLB

“We started our Shoes That Fit chapter when we lived in Chicago; the winters are horrible and we would see kids walking to school in beat up shoes, slippers, even flip flops in the snow. When we moved to Scottsdale, we started the program here where there is so much poverty—people don't even realize. The best part of Shoes That Fit is getting to witness how generous people are.”

When Washington Elementary School in Pomona, CA calls because Jose needs a pair of shoes or he will miss school, we are able to respond swiftly because of the generous support of our Corporate Partners. Your ongoing support allows us to make a difference in the lives of so many children. You should hear the excitement in the voice of a school principal when we call to say a company in the area wants to provide 100 shoes for your most in need students. They most often respond with "Are you serious?" We just love making those calls—and YOU make that possible. We appreciate all your employee volunteer hours, special in-store campaigns and continued financial support, which allows us to fulfill our mission...one pair of shoes at a time.
